

Emergency Animal Mortality Preparedness Rendering Service Disruption in the Central Valley Mortality Disposal Options for Dairy

July 01, 2024

Background

The forecasted extreme heat through the summer months of 2024 may very likely result in the rendering plants cannot handle the increased mortalities and deteriorated carcasses, both require immediate action and may potentially create catastrophic public/animal health problems, and environmental and economic impacts. This preparedness guidance document addresses related dairy needs in the Central Valley and includes general options, county specific information and contact lists and other resources in links and attachments. Of note, the Central Valley Regional Water Quality Control Board (Regional Board) has strong authority over discharges of waste related to carcass management, so regional and county specific guidance must be considered.

During an emergency, for the temporary onsite storage of mortalities before the final disposition (option 2 discussed below), Regional Board staff directed producers to seek coverage under State Water Resources Control Board Order WQ 2020-0004-DWQ General Waste Discharge Requirements for Disaster-Related Wastes. A direct link to the General Order can be found here. Note also that producers should record the final disposition of each carcass not sent to rendering. Compliance will help producers avoid potential enforcement actions. Records need to be maintained for at least three years.

The below guidance and listed emergency disposal options are only applicable during an emergency and when a Quarantine Notice is issued by the State Veterinarian, which temporarily enables exemption from applicable California Food and Agricultural Code (FAC) regulatory mandates during the specified emergency period. Once the emergency¹ is over, carcasses must be sent to rendering or other

¹ This advisory will be activated upon California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) notification of an actual or scheduled disruption to rendering services and serves to facilitate execution of communication, notification, and other required actions. The advisory is applicable for rendering disruption emergencies, to include diminished rendering capacity, such as during maintenance or breakdowns, as well as during increased demand for rendering during large animal mortality events, caused by extreme weather, isolated incidents, or routine animal disease/feed contamination events. Please note that a Quarantine Notice is issued by the State Veterinarian during rendering disruption emergencies.

This advisory is not intended to be used for carcass disposal needs during catastrophic disasters such as large-scale fires, earthquake, or floods. The emergency response to these catastrophic events is overseen by local and county governments and by CalOES, employing the emergency carcass disposal guidelines published by CalEPA. A live link of the guideline can be found at <https://calepa.ca.gov/disaster/animals/> The guidance is updated periodically by Cal EPA, CDFA and other stakeholders.

This advisory is not applicable during foreign, emerging or other emergency animal disease outbreak response. The CDFA Animal Health Branch (AHB) will investigate large mortality events in livestock and poultry to rule out the presence of foreign animal disease. If the mortality event is determined not to have been caused by a foreign or other emergency animal disease, that event will trigger activation of this advisory; otherwise, the emergency response to a confirmed foreign or other emergency animal disease event will be handled by CDFA AHB.

permitted alternative, and disposal of dairy mortalities on-site will be considered by Regional Board to be a violation of the California Water Code, and by CDFA to be a violation of FAC 19348 (a).

Producers are encouraged to first check if an alternative rendering facility can accept the carcasses before pursuing the options listed below. Rendering companies and contact information can be found in Attachment A: CA Renderers that Handle Livestock Mortality.

Producers can also call the CDFA MPES rendering disruption emergency hotline at 916-900-5261. This number is available to industry and producers 24/7 to report issues.

General Emergency Disposal Options

Option #1 Direct transport to a permitted landfill

Some producers may be able to locate a landfill that will accept carcasses¹. Producers should contact the landfill prior to transporting the carcasses and meet the landfill's conditions and requirements for acceptance. However, some counties may require an emergency proclamation in order to dispose of livestock carcasses outside of the county where the animal perished. A comprehensive list of landfills/contact information can be found on Attachment B: Landfills that Accept Carcasses and Conditions for Acceptance. Carcasses can be transported either by the producer or by a CDFA-licensed dead hauler (link). A partial list of dead haulers by county is provided in Attachment C: Partial List of Dead Haulers. A map of landfills and the materials they are authorized to accept is available on the Water Board's website.

Option #2 Temporary storage on-farm for later transport to a permitted landfill

If an alternative rendering facility or landfill cannot be immediately located, carcasses may be temporarily stored on-site for later transport to permitted landfills. This mitigates the immediate nuisance problem of decomposing carcasses by the roadside, kills some common human and animal pathogens, and creates a more manageable material which is more acceptable for landfills.

In accordance with the General Waste Discharge Requirements for Disaster-Related Waste Order WQO-2020-0004, a waterproof liner (e.g., a plastic sheet) should be used to protect groundwater from infiltration. Adult carcasses should be placed on a 3-foot bed of dairy manure on top of the plastic sheet and covered with 3 feet of the same material. The site of the temporary piles should be protected from inundation, washout, runoff, ponding, and scavenging wild animals. The temporary pile should be more than 100 feet from any surface water or water supply well, and at least 25 feet from groundwater monitoring wells. Transport of the carcass material to a permitted landfill alleviates environmental concerns related to on-farm burial.

If a dairy needs to store mortalities on-site prior to disposal at a landfill under an emergency, they are required to get coverage under the General Waste Discharge Requirements for Disaster-Related Waste Order WQO-2020-0004 under Section F (Conditions for Discharge of Disaster-Related Wastes at Temporary Waste Storage Areas). To get covered under the General Order WQO-2020-0004, a dairy must file a Notice of Intent and follow the waste pile Construction and other provisions regarding dust, vector, odors, and scavenging control in Section F. There is no fee required. Waste Discharge Requirements and long-term monitoring/reporting is not anticipated to be required as long as the temporary storage is in compliance with Section F. Under emergency conditions declared by the Governor, the General Order allows for 30 days to submit the Notice of Intent which is found on pages 26-27 of the General Order and in Attachment D: Notice of Intent. If the emergency is not declared by the Governor, the Notice of Intent must be submitted to the Regional Water Board and approved by the Executive Officer prior to the start of activities. Additionally, producers are required to submit a Notice of Termination which can be found on pages 28-29 of the General Order and in Attachment E: Notice of Termination.

¹ Landfills not permitted to accept livestock carcasses may accept carcasses but will require to first receive an Emergency Waiver of Standards, issued by the enforcement agency (EA), during or after a proclamation of emergency prior to accepting livestock carcasses.

Producers should contact their landfill before transporting the material to ensure the facility is permitted to accept it. Please note that if the material is disposed offsite to a landfill within 30 days under a declared emergency, submittal of a Notice of Intent may not be necessary. However, the dairy operator still must comply with Section F and submit a Notice of Termination once the material is removed.

Carcass material must be removed from the dairy no later than 6 months following the creation of the temporary pile. Operators must keep and maintain records to document material stored/composted and that the carcass material was taken to a landfill within 6 months.

Regional Board staff will be looking for evidence of bones and carcasses that are left for more than 6 months and checking for landfill disposal records during future inspections.

Option #3 On-site composting followed by landfill or land application

A third option available to producers is composting mortalities on the farm and sending the compost materials either to a landfill or applying it to the farm on-site. Several guides for composting cattle mortalities are available on-line including USDA and Extension Bulletins from Michigan State \(link\), Oklahoma State \(link\) and Maine State \(link\). The date, number and identity of cows composted and subsequently transported to landfill or disposed on-site should be documented to answer any future regulatory inquiries.

CalRecycle has finalized a guidance document titled Carcass Composting Regulatory Pathway During a Declared Emergency, which is intended to provide some options to assist producers with the management of animal carcasses during an emergency documented by a regulatory authority. The guidance includes some of the key points and limiting factors for each option. CalRecycle's Enforcement Advisory Committee and Solid Waste Resource and Recovery Committee have both reviewed this document. CalRecycle has shared this final document with county Local Enforcement Agencies (LEAs) and also posted it on their website under LEA Central's "News & Activities" box here. A notification form needs to be completed and submitted to the County LEA before starting the composting operation, and the link to the form is here. CDFA will continue working with CalRecycle and LEAs to understand conditions/restrictions for emergency composting from the local levels.

It should be noted, a notice of intent (Attachment D: Notice of Intent) followed by notice of termination (Attachment E: Notice of Termination) needs to be submitted to the Regional Water Quality Control Board in accordance with the requirements of General Waste Discharge Requirements for Disaster-Related Waste Order WQO-2020-0004.

CDFA in consultation with the State Water Resources Control Board, Regional Water Board, CalRecycle and LEAs, and San Joaquin Valley Air District will provide more guidance in the near future as to the final disposition of the composted materials, meaning either landfill or on-site use.

County Specific Information

Each county has unique governance and resources. For some counties, emergency proclamations might be necessary for all three disposal options. County specific information is compiled below. Producers with questions about the current status of their own county are advised to contact the office of their county Agricultural Commissioner \(link\) or closest CDFA Animal Health District Office.

Landfill fees quoted below are only valid as of the revision date of this document. Producers should confirm the fees when calling to arrange for carcass disposal at the landfill.

Stanislaus County

Unlike many other counties, Stanislaus County has carcass acceptance written into their landfill permit and therefore does not need a County Emergency Proclamation to allow landfill disposal of carcasses. However, emergency proclamation may be needed if producers are considering the option of temporary onsite storage or onsite composting. Once CDFA has issued a permit to “Dispose of Carcass(es) or Specified Risk Material at a Landfill”, carcasses can be sent to the Fink Landfill at 4000 Fink Road, Crows Landing CA 95313. Prior to transport, producers should contact the site engineer Ryan Pearson at 209-837-4801 or 209-250-9634 to arrange a time for delivery. Coordination is required to ensure carcasses can be buried immediately upon delivery. Special handling tipping fees are $120/ton. Proof of residence is required; cattle from outside Stanislaus County will not be accepted. No free flowing liquids. All loads are subject to inspection and rejection if free flowing liquids are observed.
